Subject: Connecting Stake and Ward Clerk Computers to Church Communications Network (CCN) Internet Connections

THE CHURCH OF
JESUS CHRIST
OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS

Computers in the offices of stake and ward clerks can now be connected to existing broadband connections, such as those that might exist in family history centers or facilities management offices.

Stakes, districts, wards, and branches are not authorized to order their own broadband connections. They are only authorized to share existing authorized broadband connections that are in place for department-sponsored units.

If there are any costs associated with connecting to these CCN connections, then they are the responsibility of the stake or district, and the work must be cleared with the facilities manager before it is done.
